DOTHAN'S GOVERNMENT BUILDING.

CONTRACT AWARDED AND WORK TO START AT ONCE.

Gude & Co. of Atlanta Are The Lowest and Best Bidders, at $84,000.00

Postmaster Trammell received information late Saturday afternoon that the contract for the erection of the government building for Dothan had been awarded Gude and Company, of Atlanta.

The contract price is $84,000 and calls for the completion of the building by the first of next year. This allows less than a year for the execution of the work and it is thought that no time will be lost, for eight hours is a working day.

Gude & Co. are the contractors who erected the addition to the government building at Montgomery a few years ago, and they are considered a strong, responsible firm.

It is likely that men will arrive in a few days and start putting things in shape for beginning the work.

Mrs. Diamond Pierson and Misses Dinkins and Lawson from Headland Ave. Visitors.

The Southern Baptist Convention meets in Louisville, Ky. Thursday. There will be a big preliminary meeting of Laymen Wednesday in which much interest is being manifested.

Rev. W. M. Anderson and Mess. M. Cherry and S. A. Stapleton will attend as delegates from the First Baptist Church, and Miss Mary Dinkins and Miss Maggie Lawson and Mrs. Diamond Pierson, as visitors from the Headland Avenue Baptist Church.

TWO SMALL FIRES SATURDAY NIGHT.

There were two small blazes in Dothan Saturday night. The first was a negro house on Crawford street near Mr. Pruitt's home. This was the last of a row of five which have been burned within the past month. They were owned by Mr. A. J. Smith. We have not learned whether or not Mr. Smith had any insurance on them. The second blaze was a small shanty in Frogtown.

A MAGAZINE AS TARGET.

Washington, Pa., May 9.—Steve Page is dying in a hospital here from injuries received today when a magazine containing 40 quarts of nitro glycerin blew up.

Page and Tony Merette, both Italians, not knowing what was in it, pinned a target on the magazine and began shooting at it with revolvers. Merette was not hurt. Houses a mile and a half away were shaken by the explosion.

HEADLAND AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Special meeting tonight. Preaching at eight o'clock.

Come out and worship with us. R. H. FOLMAR.

AUGUSTA EVANS WILSON

NOTED SOUTHERN WRITER PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Evans Began Her Career At Early Age and Her Published Works Are Many.

Mobile, Ala., May 9.—Mrs. Augusta Evans Wilson, noted Southern authoress, died at her home in this city at 6 o'clock this morning, aged 74 years.

Her death came suddenly while she was dressing and was due to heart failure. She was a native of Columbus, Ga., and began her literary career at an early age. She was the daughter of Matt Ryan and Sarah Howard Evans. Her published works are Inez, Beulah, Macaria, St. Elmo, Yashti, Infelice, At the Mercy of the Tiberius, and A Speckled Bird, the last finished and published about a year ago.

December 2, 1836, she was married to Colonel L. M. Wilson, a prominent citizen of Mobile, and their beautiful suburban home, Ashlund was a literary and social centre from that day till his death in October, 1891.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Bush, of Birmingham, Mrs. Braxton Bragg, of Mobile, two nephews, Braxton Howard and John Bragg; one niece, Lillie Bragg, of Mobile, and other relatives.

Her health had been failing for a year past, and ever since the death of her brother, J. Howard

NEGRO BRUTE

ASSAULTS WIFE OF FLORIDA FARMER

And is Captured By Mob and Lynched Before Sheriff Reaches Scene.

Jacksonville, Fla., May 9.—Mrs. John Deas, wife of a well-known farmer residing at Camden, four miles from Jacksonville, was originally assaulted early last night by an unknown negro, who was later captured by a mob of citizens and lynched.

Mrs. Deas' screams attracted the attention of her son, who came to her rescue, but the negro had made his escape from the scene. When the sheriff reached the place the mob had captured the negro, Mrs. Deas had identified him and his throat had been cut from ear to ear and the body riddled with bullets.

The sheriff could gain no identity of the mob and no one seems to know the negro, claiming he was a stranger in these parts. The body was brought to Jacksonville today.

Evans, a fire insurance agent, who prior to his death was well known all over the State of Alabama.

Mrs. Wilson was the wife of the late L. M. Wilson, who was many years ago president of the Bank of Mobile. She leaves relatives in Texas, as well as Washington D. C. The funeral arrangements have not been decided upon.

THIS MEANS THAT THE CITY WILL HAVE PAVED STREETS, MORE WATER AND SEWER MAINS, BETTER SCHOOL FACILITIES, BETTER CONVENIENCES FOR THE PEOPLE WHO LIVE IN DOTHAN.

THE PANAMA GIRL AGAIN.

Editor Eagle.

Dear Sir: From the recent discussions of the PANAMA GIRL, her figure, the cut of her costume, etc., it is evident that the critics on this subject are far from competent. What does a man know of the technique of feminine dress. Though Mr. McClellan should know and Mr. Purvis also, especially since his experiences at Mobile Bay, yet it is obvious that the party or parties writing those to pieces, descriptive of the PANAMA GIRL, were neither married or experienced really.

The gentleman writers on this subject seem to be of the opinion that bathing costumes are primarily employed unblushingly to display the entrancing proportions and Venus like curves of the perfect feminine figure. They do not know whether bloomers, tights, or the lack of both brings out the clinging effect so desired by the proper seashore girl. I say they do not know, in part, not because of their lame discourse, but because of the fact that they should not know. Since both Mr. Purvis and

Mr. McClellan are handsome gentlemen and have very winning ways with out sex, they may learn much, down on the Gulf Beach this summer, that they now don't know.

Of one thing I am certainly sure; that is that there will be lots of PANAMA GIRLS this summer and lots to see—lots of an entrancing nature—on the Gulf Beach. When I write "ENTRANCING" I know whereof I speak because when I have slipped into my bathing suite and stroll down to the surf, I can sit here with closed eyes and see the men entranced and staring, in open mouth wonder. There will be hundreds of pretty girls with also happily figures and the writer of last week was certainly right when he stated that the sea-shore is the place for "peaches" to prove the fact. I am going there myself and am going to be a very Panama GIRL.

Hoping the above in defense of my sisters will be taken in the true and proper spirit of a perfectly frank discussion, I am Yours very sincerely,

A MAID OF BOTHAN.

What Money Can't Buy.

Money can't buy everything. There are no admission tickets to a sunset, you wouldn't trade the look in your boy's eyes when he greets you at night, for a million dollars of anybody's money, and if you keep a well furnished mind you can go into it at any time you like as you would into a child's playground and amuse yourself watching your thoughts play leap frog with each other.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

The bravest thing about a girl is how afraid she is not to go on a dark piazza with a man.

Some families are so lucky that when they are praying for a boy baby he arrives as girl twins.

The reason a woman can suspect her neighbor talks about her is because they are so nice to each other.

If a woman could hang on to her money the way she can to her high tops in what her husband could pay some of his bills.

The particular form of lying that appeals most to card players is that they don't care whether they win or lose, so long as they have a good game.

NEW FEDERAL BUILDING

Mr A V Gude Jr representing the firm of Gude and Company of Atlanta who have the contract for erecting the new Federal building, was in Dothan today. Mr Gude is securing samples of the material to be used in the construction of the building. These samples have to be sent to Washington and approved by the Department before the material can be used. Mr Gude states that if the Department acts on the samples promptly that his firm will be able to commence work on the building in about thirty days. It all depends on how soon the Department approves the material. This will be good news to the people of Dothan who would like to see work commence as soon as possible.

THEY WILL WALK IT OFF

Three young men of the Advertiser office are tramping their way toward Mobile Bay. It has always been an idea of ours that if one stayed in the newspaper business long enough he would have to hit the road with his wallet on his back. These men haven't lost out with the Advertiser, though. One is the son of Mr Glass, the other the son of the Advertiser, (Will Shehan) and the other the handsome looking young man who makes the pictures for the paper whose signature you never can read at the bottom of his drawings. They feel the need of a change—not a rest, for they won't be rested very well when they return if they walk all the way down to the bay. They want fresh air and fresh ideas, and fresh diet, and fresh beds to sleep on as they go down, they will get them all, very likely. They want to get out of hearing of the street cars, the hum of busy machinery, away from the sparrow hawk noise of the linotype machine's distributing device, they don't want to walk on pavements and see ice wagons but want fresh water from the wells, just for a week. By this method, one can meet a great many people worth knowing who cannot be met otherwise hardly. One can see sections of the country and have impressions made upon the mind that grow no dimmer with age but such an appetite. The appetite those boys will accumulate as they go would be the terror of any boarding house lady.

This walking business is as old as Adam but we would all get more out of life if we took such a trip each year.

DOTHAN'S CEMETERY

City of the Dead No Longer A Forgotten and Neglected Spot

Have you been out to the cemetery lately? Have you been taking any interest in unimproved and beautifying it? Maybe some of us have, but there are people who have not and a visit to this sacred spot, hallowed by the memory of departed loved ones who have found a last resting place there, will show you that the City of the Dead is no longer a forgotten and neglected spot.

For a long time Dothan's Cemetery looked more like a game preserve, where native verdure grew and flourished, or some ancient battle field where an occasional shaft raised its head above the weeds and briars or a lonely tabler marked the place where some hero fell. And Dothan pursued the even tenor of its way. When the solemn toll of the Church bell called her people to this lonely spot to lay some friend or loved one there, we shook our heads as we gazed upon the desolation, and said, "Something should be done." But until recently nothing was done.

When the new administration came into office this was one of the first matters to receive their attention. A Cemetery Committee, composed of Messrs J W Grant, Chairman and A Y Malone, W C Penn, K P Holland and A D Whiddon were appointed to take the matter in charge. And this committee with the active aid of every member of the administration, went to work with a vigor and enthusiasm born of civic and personal pride and have transformed the spot into a place in which we all may now take pride.

The whole block in which the cemetery was located was bought by the City and all including the Pickler Cemetery made into what may be called the new cemetery. This place now includes a whole city block and has a wide driveway all around it. Five driveways, wide enough for two vehicles to pass each other have been opened through the tract from North to South thus making every portion of the grounds easily accessible. The weeds, briars and bushes have been cleared away and the low place filled in. A large number of workmen have been busy for several weeks putting things in order. Members of the Administration as well as members of the Cemetery Committee have given no matter their personal attention and supervision. Mr J W Grant, Chairman of the committee has made daily trips of inspection to the ground and devoted a large portion of his time to having the work carried on as laid out by the committee. The work is not yet completed as the finishing touches are yet to be added.

The Hebrew Cemetery will also be authorized. While this burying ground has received some attention already it is the purpose of those who have the matter in charge to improve it in a manner keeping with the grounds across the way.

All praise to the men who have done this good work for Dothan. If Dothan reaps no other benefit from their tenure of office this work will be a monument to their administration.

SOMETHING NEW:

When this bottle is filled with hot coffee, hot tea, or anything else, it remains the same temperature for two days. If filled with ice water, the same is the result. If it's cold, it stays cold; if it's hot, it stays hot. Useful in the sickroom, with children at night, useful on the road, or at home.

Hammond Drug Company.

How's this Judge Dalton, Judge Helms, Judge Malone, Judge Barnes, Judge Crawford, Judge Leslie. You might be trying the new titles on them all and see how little they will be surprised.

Buy what you will, but if we don't have paved streets, better water system, better sewer system, better school facilities, it will be because no one wants to buy some good bonds. They will be on the market, as soon as the preliminaries are over with.

When Mr. Boyle received a life sentence, and his wife got twenty five years, it's said they collapsed. Such a shock to their sensitive spirits. A judge can't be too particular pronouncing a verdict, and a jury, when it files in one behind the other should never forget that such high keeled prisoners are liable to collapse at such a coarse verdict. It will be terrible on Pennsylvania if the Boyles don't overcome their shock.

A man called in the other day with apologies about not paying for his paper sooner, and wanted to know how much it was, said he didn't have enough money in his pockets to take it up but he would send it as soon as he got home. When we looked up the account we saw, to our horror and his great surprise, that he was ahead. Wouldn't owe anything till January, 1910. In that instance, it didn't pay to be honest, that is, it didn't pay in cash, and we are figuring on cutting out such surprises.

Mr. Gude, of Gude and Company, the Atlanta contractors for the government building, thinks that it will be something like thirty days before work will commence on the building. We had hopes of being able to show the Alabama Press Association a sample of the dirt dug out of the ground where the building is to stand, but it now looks as if we will have to go down and spade it up ourselves. It's just a little over a month before they are due here and the contractor will hardly be over the chalk line period by that time.

A man wrote us a very serious letter from Lookhart to tell about a fortune telling negro who located his wife's bracelet which had been gone a month. They had every reason to believe that it was stolen, but called the negro to confirm their suspicions. The negro took a crooked stick and watched its dippings, and found that the good lady had placed the bracelet between the mattresses, where many hide money, jewelry, tax receipts, patent medicines and other household necessities. The negro told when it was placed there for safe keeping, and the family are so well pleased with the wonderful power that the news item is transferred to this paper, that the outside world might know of it.

FREAK PERFORMERS

It is not much trouble to find a man to try any kind of a job. The loop the loop man must have had a high pressure to have screwed up the courage to make his first loop. His courage was not greater, though, than that of the man who swallowed the first live oyster. The high diver never tired it from the top the first time, but the loop the loop man couldn't take it from the bottom, neither could the oyster man. Both will have monuments erected to their memory some day we hope, which will give the two ven- uresome fools their just reward. The man who swallows things about as had. Occasionally we hear of a fellow who takes up the workbasket and swallows everything in it from the knitting needles to the beeswax, including brass buttons, thimbles, papers of needles, pins, fish hooks, carpet nails, wire nails—in fact everything kept in a first class hardware store, and lives. He ought to learn how to make nitro glycerine and follow it as a profession.

All that has been said amounts to but little when we consider the number of people who don't perform freak acts for a living, who do other things, such as blowing down the barrel of a gun, or pointing an empty one at their best friend, lighting the fire with oil, locking your enemy in a room to whip him, after throwing the key away. There are many doubly hazardous risks one might take, which some do take, every blessed day, and don't do it as a means of making money either.

THE OLD WAY STILL

When Hamon got that gallows built, and paid off the carpenters, he probably viewed the job with a good deal of pride. He might have told the men what it was to be used for, or they might have guessed. Hamon thought he known, but his calculations went wrong. He was crazy for authority, and power to make the most humble bow to him. He wanted to be pointed out to the visitors looking over the palace, as the one right hand man of old king Ahasuerus and his wife was a fool about him too and urged him on his just as good as pull the trigger that finally sprung that gallows. The old king was a fool about pretty women and good wine, and was liable to do a foolish thing when either was concerned, otherwise he was a pretty fair kind of a king, for a man. He got half shot, and tried to show off Queen Vashti to a rowdy crowd of toughs. She was pretty and he wanted them to brag on her right to his face, as if they'd done anything else. It didn't turn out pretty. The queen sent word out that she was not on dress parade and that she didn't propose to be exhibited in such a crowd. That act of hers cost her the job, such a job as it was, and ever after she did not see a second table. Later comes later with a report that she is coming, which is suited in the line of reversing times. It's back to the right to do being it up in court, a bit soon. That if that is just also put Hamon on the high gallows, and when he got up there and looked down in the upturned faces fifty feet above them, he probably thought what a different life he would live if he had it all to live over again. No doubt he looked down at Zeresh his wife and told her she was the cause of it all. That would have been about like Hamon.

Since that time sick people have sought to get favor from the half shot man at the head. They have taken many drinks and some tollars to accomplish the results, but that kind of politics has been universally used. The gallows Hamon had built was considered a good piece of workmanship, and it has been freely used through out the civilized world ever since, although the style of gallowses used this spring are not so tall as the Hamon style. It has been learned since that a man do not have to jump from a fifty foot gallows to have his neck pulled and an eight inch drop is considered ample.

The example of King Ahas made of his first lieutenant has been followed ever since, only in a milder form. It is not necessary to hang a man to impress upon him that he must change his way of living. Some times his political head is merely cut off and dumped on a charger and exhibited to the company.

JUST OUT.

The "Year Book" of the United States Brewers' Association is just out. It is a book containing over 200 pages devoted mostly to reasons why we shouldn't run whiskey out of the country. You can scan through the book and see in a minute that the brewers hired a pretty good writer to get up their data, and, so far as the interesting points of the book are concerned, they are as dull as an unabridged dictionary with five thousand pages. It doesn't matter how much one is interested in placing whiskey before the public, he wouldn't read that book through. The whole trick is a cross between the Congressional Record and Agricultural Reports, so far as interesting and absorbing topics go. Any one wishing to get soaked full of information such as this book contains, can have our copy, if fifty cents in stamps is forwarded as evidence of good faith.

A newspaper gets on the free mailing list of many such enterprises. If the editors made note of all such publications, in the way that some of the publishers seem to expect, they wouldn't have much space for fires, runaway's, births and political meetings.

THE PUBLIC.

It was only a few years ago when the public ate what it liked for breakfast. There was no special food that should be eaten at that meal. Some fellow found out the fad of folks, and put up in a neat package, a thing that he said was fit to eat, and put it on the market as a special breakfast food. Now, many people couldn't eat breakfast without something specially recommended as a breakfast food.

At one time there were but two makes of reliable pistols. Every man and boy and every turpentine negro knew which these were and nothing else was as good. Then a fellow got to making a pistol which he had every reason to believe was as good as anybody's, and he believed the public would see it that way too, if the public would buy. How to get them to buy? He began to turn this end over to expert ad writers, and he "hammered" along at it till now these death-dealers have a good sale, and the other two old time makes have had to spend barrels of money to keep their guns selling.

The same thing happened with as simple a thing as shaving soap. Several years ago the barbers of this town, and other towns, used but one kind of shaving soap, practically. Then another man got to making a kind he had enough confidence in to invite the public to try. Folks tried it, and saw that it was a little better than the old kind. And this was all brought about by putting the articles before the public by advertising them.

The public may wear many different makes of collars, but the public really knows the name of but one or two makes, which are advertised.

Every article of dress, every article of food that goes on the table, is usually an article that is kept before the public by means of its publicity. If they stopped pushing it, others would crowd them.

The stale, dignified, old time merchant who felt like the public had been knowing him long enough to come to his place when it wanted his goods, has been left with his same old time business, that is growing shabbier every day, left by the new and hustling man who keeps what the public wants and who pushes out and hums up the public to bring to his place of business. He will remind the public that he has these things, and keeps hitting at it hard, till the public comes to believe that the old fellow is out of business, and the chances are he wouldn't have what it wants anyway, so it will go to the new man who has his stuff constantly before them.

The public is a funny body of folks. We went to the grocery store and bought what we needed and carried it up to the house, ourselves, at one time. Then some enterprising grocer thought it would be better to deliver the goods. He tried this and found that it paid. People would buy from him because it was so convenient. Then, later, he thought that the public would buy more groceries if the porter called every morning to find out what was wanted, and to tell of some special deficiency of the market the boss has just got in. This was a good move and the grocery buyer shops through the porter, and knows beforehand what can be had for dinner. The public loves to be run after. If a man stops you every day and asks you to buy a certain article he has the next time you are out, you will come to believe in him, and you will give him a try-out, if he keeps it up, and his stuff being good, you will continue to buy from him.
